Dear Members and Friends:

In 2015, Wings Over the Rockies advanced a mission to “educate and inspire through aviation and space” with unprecedented achievements. This annual report shares highlights with pride and appreciation for your support.

We embrace a responsibility laden with promise and opportunity. Consider…

- America has been an aerospace nation since the Wright Brothers first flew in 1903;
- Colorado is the second leading aerospace state in employment and economic impact;
- The Front Range has the highest concentration of aerospace workers in the nation;
- The Rocky Mountain region boasts more pilots per capita than any other;
- and, last but not least…
- Wings Over the Rockies is designated as Colorado's Official Air & Space Museum!

Flight allows us to reach beyond ordinary surroundings. In Colorado, we look up to big mountains and bigger skies, to extraordinary surroundings, and to the promise of new horizons reached through the frontier of flight.

Our new horizons at Wings this past year have included more museum admissions and event guests than ever before. We installed more new and rotating exhibits in 2015 than anyone can remember. We launched the Wings Aerospace Academy charter program as the first of its kind initiative. And we celebrated our best-ever Spreading Wings Gala, honoring the 45th anniversary of Apollo XIII with 1200 aerospace enthusiasts.

Meanwhile, at Centennial Airport, a dream is finally becoming reality as we dedicated the Flight Ramp of our Exploration of Flight facility. Flight-based programs continue to grow and justify development of this education and technology center. Both sites support and complement one another.

The promise of 2016 is extraordinary at both Wings locations. Your membership and financial contributions are the fuel that help us reach new horizons. Of course, we continue to face headwinds from an uncertain economy.

But ask yourselves this: What better return on investment can there be than one that inspires and educates young people to reach for new horizons of achievement in their lives? An investment into Wings’ generation-transcending, life-changing mission offers a return beyond anything else.

We are Wings! I invite your continued support, maybe in new ways and with new friends. Welcome to our family.

Warmest regards,

Greg Anderson

AT END OF 2015
EDUCATION

- Wings Aerospace Academy (WAA) opened in fall 2015 to 47 middle school students interested in aviation and aerospace
  - Students do their schoolwork through an online partner, and come to Wings at least one day a week
  - Wings provides incredible hands-on experience with everything from building radio-controlled aircraft to flying in helicopters
  - WAA students interact with mentors across the aviation and aerospace communities on a regular basis
  - WAA will grow one grade each year until the first class graduates from high school in 2020
- School/Scout/Children Tours = 4,988 from 151 schools and organizations
- 95 new teachers took their first flight in our 1942 Stearman biplane
  - That means as of the end of this year, 376 Teacher Envoys from 36 school districts and 13 counties have flown through the Teacher Flight Program
- The Teacher Flight Program hosted the meet and greet with the Apollo XIII crew and several visiting aircraft with over 50 people in attendance
- Outreach program: 38,000 kids were exposed to the wonder of flight through our KidSpace Outreach held at 6 different Airshows/Fairs/Festivals around the state
MUSEUM EVENTS

- Spreading Wings Gala achieved new heights with over 1,200 attendees honoring the Apollo XIII astronauts Jim Lovell and Fred Haise and Flight Director Gene Kranz
  - The Gala brought in a record-breaking $250,000 to support Wings!
- Both Hauntings in the Hangar and Star Wars were over 150% above projected revenue
- Brand new movie nights were successful, attracting hundreds more people to wings for after-hours and off-site events
- Hops in the Hangar, Robotics, and Kids Day continue to be successful events
